

Allison Yocum PT, DSc, PCS (allisonyocum@msn.com) is the Regional Coordinator for the Greater Seattle-Tacoma Region, and is currently practicing pediatric physical therapy at Northwest Pediatric Therapies in Issaquah, Washington. This practice is a private, outpatient clinic serving children 0-21 years with physical therapy needs. She has also practiced in the school system, early intervention and birth to three programs, and acute care settings and served as a consultant on hospital based neurodevelopmental teams in her 11 years of practice. She received her pediatric advanced clinical practice certification in 2001. In 2003, she completed her Doctor of Science degree in pediatric physical therapy from Rocky Mountain University of Health Professions. Her doctoral research focused on reliable strength testing of the gastrocnemius and soleus muscles in children and was presented at national physical therapy meetings. In addition to her clinical work, she is also currently serving as the pediatric content specialist for the IRB at Rocky Mountain University of Health Professions.